

I was held captive, but I escaped.
I waited 7 years.
Now it's time for my revenge.

MIST

JL Wilson

Seven years ago, I was kidnapped by a monster who made me his 'bride'. I was kept for more than forty days -- 964 hours, to be precise. 964 hours of torment, fear, and humiliation.

By the time I jumped out of a window and escaped, running naked through the snow to freedom, I was mangled into the person I am today, a scarred and crippled woman whose lover was brutally murdered, whose life was torn asunder, a creature who lost everything in those nights of terror.

Now there was just one focus in my life: Find the monster and kill him. I've spent the years planning and training for what I would do. My chance might finally be here, if I play my cards right. The FBI task force has laid a trap with my bodyguard, Ned Buchanan, as the bait. I'll be going into the trap with him and if I have my chance...

Have you ever wondered what happens to us afterward, to those who were missed? Have you ever wondered what would happen if we could face our torturer?

Have you ever wondered how good revenge might feel?
